DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 42-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The applicants amended the claims. The claims as amended are not enabled. The amended claims require acrylonitrile unit selected from styrene, conjugated diene and combination thereof. This is not possible.

The claims as amended also require acrylonitrile unit present in pieces of a specific size. This is not possible because this unit is a part of the polymer.

3. Claims 42-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The applicants amended the claims.

The claims as amended require an agent comprising a polymer and a separate unit selected from styrene, conjugated diene and combination thereof. This is not supported by the original disclosure, which requires the polymer to comprise an acrylonitrile unit and a unit selected from styrene, conjugated diene and combination thereof.

The claims as amended further require a polymer comprising 20-95% of acrylonitrile unit this is not supported by the original disclosure, which requires the polymer to comprise 20-95% of a unit selected from styrene, conjugated diene and combination thereof.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1746

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claim 54 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over any one of EP 0818474, EP 0818420 and Inagaki et al in view of DE 4444032, Elfine, Monick et al, Horton and Ramirez et al.

This rejection was previously applied and is maintained for the reasons indicated in the previous Office action.

As to the newly added limitation requiring the specific size of pieces of the polymer. The primary documents teach the use of powder. See at least page 2, lines 49-52 of EP 0818420 and column 5, lines 21-24 of Inagaki et al. It is obvious that powder has particles size not larger than 3.5 mesh.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 1/13/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicants amended the claims and argue that the claims as amended are patentable over the applied art. This is not persuasive for the reasons provided in the rejection above.

It is noted that the applicants argue that Iganaki et al teach that molecular weight could not be small. The applicants consider this teaching as opposite to presenting the polymer in small pieces.

The applicant's argument and position are not clearly understood because the size of the polymer pieces is not the molecular weight of the polymer. The polymer of high molecular weight can be processed to small pieces.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
